TELEGRAMS.

THE STRIKES IN LONDON.

LONDON, August 28th.
Gas stokers, coal-heavers, carmen, railway depots employes, and the workmen in the Thames Ironworks have struck. Vessels are unloading in the Medway.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

In the case of Mme. Pauline Francois, a writ of habeas corpus is to be applied for at the Supreme Court to-morrow.A TELEGRAM dated London, August 21st, states that the dock labourers who went out on strike numbered thirty thousand.We observe from a Japanese contemporary that Count Okuma, the Japanese Minister for Foreign Affairs, has to take special precautions for his personal safety. He never goes out without carrying a shikomizono (sword-stick).ACCORDING to Manila exchanges, restrictions are to be placed on the Chinese immigration shortly.
The measure, in nearly every issue, calls for it, and headings equivalent to "Hello, more Chinamen," are among the mildest used.The Bishop of Rochester has issued a protest against the prevalent fashion of overdressing girls who offer themselves for confirmation. He says:—"Mock pearls in the humblest class, and white-satin shoes in the higher—should be firmly eschewed. He goes on to say:—"Nothing would distress me more than to have to send a candidate back for showy or tawdry apparel, but for example's sake it may be necessary for me to do it."A BULL-FIGHT will take place in the Circus of San Marcello, Manila, on the 8th September.
Four bulls will be provided. Anybody wanting to see the same should go over by the Diamond.A REGULAR meeting of Zetland Lodge, No. 525, will be held in Freemasons' Hall, Zetland Street, on Tuesday, the 3rd proximo, at 8.30 for 9 p.m. precisely. Visiting brethren are cordially invited.The series of articles dealing with "Our Local Stocks" will be resumed next week. The writer of these sketches has been very much "off colour" for some days past. This answers several inquiries.HI YAH! China is progressing. A criminal action for libel is being brought by one Hongkong Chinaman against another, and will probably be heard next week. Can the defendant have called the other man "a broker"? Dread thought!MESSRS. Adamson, Bell & Co., agents for the Canadian-Pacific Line, inform us that the steamship Parthia arrived at Vancouver on the 28th inst. from Yokohama (15th). The silk ex Port Augusta was delivered in New York on the 23rd inst. and ten on the 27th."SHARKHOLDERS."—We don't know if all the agents and accountants of the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank have to find substantial security before receiving the Bank's power of attorney.
Perhaps the Chief Manager would tell you what you want to know if you applied to him.THIS morning a junk laden with stones overturned near Whitefield Police Station. There were fourteen men on board at the time, two of whom were drowned. Three of the others climbed out to the keel, and the rest clung to the inside. A police-launch went out, and by cutting through the side these were all rescued.THERE has been a good deal of excitement evinced in connection with Stock Exchange matters to-day, but so far as we can learn nothing has transpired to justify the confident predictions so generally indulged in that the settlements would result in a big "smash up." Doubtless we shall be able to give a more accurate description of the situation in our to-morrow's issue.A REMARKABLE double-headed child was recently born to a French family named Recoubault in Manchester, Maine. The heads are both perfect and are joined to the body by two short, well-shaped necks. It uses its mouths and eyes apparently at will in eating, crying, waking, and even sleeping. The parents were much shocked at the appearance of their baby and went at once to Montreal to avoid the notice of their neighbors.
The child is likely to live.THE Band of the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders will play the following programme at the Barrack Square, this evening, commencing at 7.30 o'clock:—March "The Volunteer" Riviere,
"The Light Cavalry" D'Almeida,
"The Dream Face" Micallef, Polka "P and O" Buechler, Quadrille "The Queen of the Gypsies" Buechler, Gigue "Wanderer" Faust.THE Kuang-pao to-day gives a curious letter which purports to have been received from London. It runs as follows:—"The Queen of England has now made arrangements for her funeral. Everything has been in order, down to the incident relating to the manner in which she should be buried. Her idea appears to be that whenever, in the future a member of the Royal family leaves this world of cares, their funerals should follow in detail the rules that set down by their Royal progenitors!" How's that for high?RE the stone-cutters' case at the Police Court, reported in another column, we hear that rather than suffer from the consequences of refusing to accede to the demands of the strikers Mr. Sun Ching, one of the largest contractors in this Colony, has agreed to their terms, and they have recommenced work. He says that he cannot afford to stop work, as all his contracts have to be finished by a certain time, failing which the loss he would sustain from the imposition of penalties would far exceed the amount he will have to expend in agreeing to the demands of the stone cutters.ANOTHER good man gone wrong. He went by the Far Eastern yesterday, without going through the usual ceremony of bidding his friends "good bye." There has been considerable waiting on the Rialto during the day, and one well-known operator, a musical amateur whose child-like confidence in the dear departed was touching to behold, drowned his sorrow in song to this effect:He will return, I know him well, He would have been here to-day, But he won't return, for all that, and his account is said to be a rather heavy one.THE Boston Herald, in a long and elaborate editorial, recommends the drinking of hot water in cases of dyspepsia. This is part of what it says. "Hot water acts in several ways. When taken into the stomach it not only stimulates it and quickens its action, but it tends—as do all hot applications—to allay irritation. Beside that, it acts mechanically and washes out that organ, hurrying its contents down into the intestines, when, without it, the same would be retained longer than there is any need of. Let a person who, four or five hours after a very hot meal, still feels uncomfortable, sip a cup of very hot water, and it will bring him great relief, stimulating the stomach, and washing out of it much of its contents which would have been sent on into the intestines, had not that organ been fatigued by overwork."SAVES the Chinese Times—In removing Chang Chih-tung from the very important post he occupied as Governor-General of the Kuang-to the same office in the Hu provinces, the Imperial Government has given us one more proof of the extreme circumspection with which it proceeds in matters of change affecting the administration of the Empire. The opposition to railways, though to a large extent unreasonable, is not wholly so, and no innovation of equal importance having ever been undertaken before, the Government is only exercising a degree of caution dictated by the commonest prudence, in taking no step without the most serious deliberation. The more so, as this great change in existing condition of life —railways—is also of foreign origin, Chinese statesmen are conscious of taking a leap in the dark, and though they cannot help taking it, they wish to reduce the risk of disastrous consequence to a minimum. To secure which end, the Government places the responsibility on the shoulders of some of the strongest men in the empire. None of the officials in China are bolder in action and less afraid of responsibility than Li Hung-Chang, Liu Min-Chuan, and Chang Chih-tung, and while to the second has been allotted the task of modernizing Formosa, the other two have made the "sponsors" for railways on the mainland; one being placed at the northern and the other at the southern terminus of the projected trunk line between Peking and Hankow. The appointment of Chang Chih-tung to the Viceroyalty of the Hu Kuang is the clearest announcement which the Government could make of its intention to proceed with railway work; and henceforth Chang and Li may be considered the two pillars of this new enterprise, or the bower anchors with which the Government hopes to ride out all storms that may be aroused in the execution of its plan.It blew great guns at Kobe on the 18th inst.
Some of the vessels in harbour dragged their anchors a bit, but happily no damage resulted.His EXCELLENCY the Governor, with Lady des Vaux, went on board the Amansa this morning, and having used threatening language against certain workmen who were non-union men, and attempting to intimidate them from working,
Mr. Edward Robinson, instructed by Messrs.
Sharp, Johnson, and Stokes, appeared for the prosecution. The prisoners, as well as witnesses for the prosecution, were all Hakkas. It appears that on the 26th inst. Inspector Swanson received information that the prisoners, with others not in custody, went to a body of stone-cutters working at Wanchai for a shop named Wo Loong, and according to the evidence of a contractor said to them, "Look here you men, don't go to work, for if you do we shall stab you to death with a knife." The men accordingly, being intimidated by these threatening words, gave up work. They were working under contract at the time, and no violence was used to them—While the evidence was going on, two men among the audience, as soon as the first witness had given his evidence, shouted out, "Tang Achan, sat see nee" which bore the significant meaning of "Look here, you lubberly fellow, we'll cut your throat for you!" These men cordially agreed to attend the trial on their own account, as Inspector Swanson wanted to make a separate charge against them.
Another contractor then testified that he had employed a number of stonecutters on the 26th instant, and, having left them quietly at work, went away. A short time afterwards, two of the workmen came to him and told him that their tools had been taken away by a number of men.
He accordingly went to No. 2 station and reported the matter. A third stated that he saw some twelve or fourteen men, who appeared to be the leaders, in company with four or five hundred men, paste a placard on the walls of the temple of the Queen of Heaven, which ran to the effect that "Master stone cutters are to deduct three candareens for every tool made, which we demand shall be given to the Stone-cutters' guild." This, however, the master stonecutters refused. But the men cried out "All you contractors must consent to these new rules; if you do not, we will all strike on the 3rd of August." This date is the annual festival of stone masons. Witnesses had over twenty workmen who all stopped work, and had not returned since they were stopped by the guidmen on the day of the general strike.—The case was remanded.

THE STONE-CUTTERS' STRIKE.

At the Police Court this afternoon, before Mr.
H. E. Wodehouse, eleven stone cutters, five of whom were arrested this morning, were charged with having used threatening language against
attempting to intimidate them from working.
Mr. Edward Robinson, instructed by Messrs.
Sharp, Johnson, and Stokes, appeared for the prosecution. The prisoners, as well as witnesses

used to them—While the evidence was going

LIMITED.The ordinary half-yearly meeting of shareholders in the above Company was held yesterday afternoon, at the Hotel. There were present: —Messrs. D. McCulloch (Chairman), E. Jones Hughes (Director), W. H. Gaskell, A. Green, J.
F. C. da Rosa, S. J. Danby, J. R. Michael, C.
A. Ozorio, Chan Choi Chow, Ho Tung, G.
Lefavour, F. Dodwell, J. E. Cox, H. G. James, and R. Lewis (Secretary).The Chairman said:—Gentlemen, as the report and accounts have been in your hands for some days, with your permission we will accept them as read. I hope they will be considered satisfactory. I am glad to be able to tell you that business is steadily improving and that the directors and management have every reason to believe that the new wing will add considerably to the yearly income. You will see from the report that we are pulling down Melchers' house.
Nothing has yet been decided about rebuilding, but our opinion is that the Hotel should be extended to the Plaza. As stated in the report, $400,000 at 6 per cent. debentures have been issued, and this places the Company for the present in a very easy position financially. The 20 debentures which appear amongst our assets will be realized as opportunity offers. Later, when the great value of your property and business is more developed and more apparent, more capital will be required; but that is a matter for future consideration. With regard to the Reclamation, there is a sketch here showing that the Company gets about 100 square feet, and from its position you will see that it is a most valuable property. The Government estimate of the cost of reclamation is on the lowest scale, that is, $1.72 cents per square foot. The accounts have been audited most carefully, but I regret to say that an error, in December, 1887, crept into the account under "Hotel property account" by the omission of the word "Furniture," which will be corrected by transferring $10,000 from the Hotel property account to the debit of Furniture account, which sum is the estimated value of what was meant by the word "Furniture" omitted in 1887. This makes no difference in your assets; it only makes the accounts square. I may mention that a card of the furniture and fixtures in the Hotel, exclusive of the 100 square feet of new wing, has been made and has been put down at cost price at $100,000, and I am advised that you could not replace the furniture for $45,000, so that when the transfer I speak of has been made, the furniture will only stand in for $45,000.
Before proposing the adoption of the accounts I shall be pleased to answer any questions.The Chairman, in reply to a Chinese shareholder, said that the old material of Melchers' Building had been sold for $1,000, which sum would be paid to the debenture holders. Messrs. Bird and Palmer had advised them that as much as they could get.
Mr. James—Can you tell me what the gross expenses in the case of Melchers' Building?
The Chairman—No, we have not got the accounts yet.
Mr. Dodwell—Can you tell us what the gross will be?
The Chairman—No; nothing is settled as yet.
Mr. Dodwell—It is for the future to make provision for it, I presume. I see there is no mention of it in the accounts.
The Chairman—Naturally, it will have to be provided for. Nothing is settled as yet, and therefore I think the less said about it the better.
Mr. Dodwell—I cannot say I agree with you there.
The Chairman then proposed the adoption of the report and accounts.
Mr. Danby seconded, and they were adopted.
The Chairman—The only other business is the re-election of myself and Mr. Jones Hughes as directors. I mention it so as to inform you that we are now the only two left of the old board, and should like some further assistance on the Board, and later we should be glad to receive some suggestions from the shareholders as to the nomination of other directors.On the motion of Mr. Gaskell, seconded by Mr. da Rosa, Messrs. McCulloch and Hughes were unanimously re-elected as directors.
The Chairman stated that the dividend warrants would be payable on Thursday next at the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank, and would be payable to shareholders, and the meeting terminated.CHINA TRADERS' INSURANCE COMPANY, LIMITED.The following is the report for presentation to the shareholders at the twenty-third ordinary meeting, to be held on Monday, the 9th September, at 4 o'clock p.m.:—The Directors have now the pleasure to lay before the Shareholders a statement of the Company's Accounts for the year ended April 30th last.The net premium earned amounts to $661,276.98, and the working account shows a balance at credit $443,343.91, which sum the Directors recommend be appropriated in the following manner:—A Dividend of 20 per cent. to Shareholders $120,000.00 A Dividend of 15 per cent. on Contributions, payable to all Contributors of business, whether Shareholders or not 92,000.00

DIRECTORS.

Mr. C. von Bosc has resigned his seat at the Board, and Mr. M. Pagnin of Messrs. Carlowitz so vacated.This appointment will require the confirmation of the Shareholders.

Messrs. L. Poesnecker and S. C. Michelsen relinquish rotation and offer themselves for re-election.

CRICKET.

SHANGHAI V. HONGKONG.

As will be seen from the annexed correspondence there is every probability that the long talked of cricket match between the Hongkong C. C. and the representatives of the Model Settlement will be brought to an issue this season. We are requested to state that members of Hongkong C. C. desirous of playing in this match will oblige by forwarding their names to the Hon.
Secretary, Mr. A. K. Travers, as early as possible, that the team may be selected.

Shanghai, 1st August, 1889.

DEAR SIR,—On behalf of the Shanghai Cricket Club, I have much pleasure in conveying a challenge to your Club to play a friendly match and return in Shanghai during the Autumn, if you can get up a team. The match would be looked forward to with keen interest here, and we might be able to arrange a return visit to the South about China New Year.I remain, Dear Sir, Yours faithfully,
F. ANDERSON,
Hon. Sec. S.C.C.
A. K. Travers, Esq., Hon. Sec., Hongkong C.C.Hongkong, 30th August, 1889.
F. ANDERSON, Esq., Hon. Secretary, Shanghai Cricket Club.DEAR SIR,—On behalf of the Hongkong Cricket Club, I have much pleasure in accepting your challenge to play a friendly match with Shanghai provided that I am able to raise an eleven.Should I succeed, which I hope to do, the team would leave Hongkong about the first week in October.I shall, however, let you know definitely, later on, how matters stand.The Committee trust that you will be able to manage a return visit to the South about China New Year. Yours, &c.,ARTHUR K. TRAVERS, Hon. Secretary.

LATE TELEGRAMS.

LONDON, August 28th.

General Grenfell telegraphs that the dervishes are completely broken up, and there is no possibility of their re-forming for a fresh invasion.
The cavalry are still pursuing and pushing the remnant of the dervish army far beyond the boundary.

NEW YORK, August 28th.

A terrific fire has occurred at Spokane Falls.
The damage aggregates about fifteen million dollars.

CAIRO, August 28th.

Sarraf has been occupied by General Grenfell.
Two thousand dervishes, marching to join Wad-el-Nijumi, were there fallen in with. But the news of the defeat of their allies had reached them, and they submitted with reluctance.
An unfortunate accident occurred yesterday.
Major Turnbull, of the Royal Irish Regiment, fell overboard a Nile gunboat into the river, between Assouan and Korosko, and was drowned before assistance could be rendered.The wounded in the action of Saturday, including Lieutenant Cotton, are progressing favourably.
Further communications concerning the action on Saturday at Toski state that eighteen sheikhs had fallen round the spot where Wad-el-Nijumi lost his life. Perceiving the danger their leader was in, they had endeavoured to proceed him from attack. Two hundred additional bodies were found in the hills near Bellana.

August 27th.

Large quantities of documents found in Wad-el-Nijumi's camp, and on the bodies of the slain sheikhs, prove widespread treason in Egypt.
Many highly-placed officials and leaders are implicated, and arrests are imminent.
The Egyptian troops which occupied Sarraf have been withdrawn and ordered to Matuka.

LONDON, August 27th.

The Pacific Squadron has started for Behring Strait under sealed orders.The Emperor was delighted with the new quick-firing guns in use on the for occupation by the beginning of September, when it is their intention to move in a body from the Japanese settlement, and leave these "anthropoids" to their glory. The only difference in this change, is that the Chinese settlement is a little to the rear of the Japanese settlement.

The Korean Customs are now enlarging their godowns which, when completed, will be used to store all incoming goods. By this new departure, the Mitsui Bishi Company's godowns, which heretofore have been used to store all goods brought by their steamers, will have to hang up the sign of "To Let."

A short while ago a tiger had the presumption to come at the residence of a foreigner, but he found nothing better there than a pretty large sized retriever, which he appropriated for supper, and then marched off without causing further losses to the foreign community.—A Chinese draper's shop was visited by an armed band of Koreans, who carried off nearly a hundred pieces of white shirtings. A member of the gang, however, has been captured and his execution is daily expected. The price of copper cash is exceedingly high at present, one dollar in silver fetching only five hundred and sixty seven cash, hence Koreans bringing down gold dust from the hills, to change for cash, experience great losses in their barter.

CHINESE CHARACTERISTICS.

THE ABSENCE OF ALTRUISM.

Altruism, which has of late become a very popular term in Western lands, is defined as "regard for others, for material and moral; devotion to the interests of others; unselfishness; opposed to egoism." The Confucian classics contain several explicit recognitions of the principle, that what one does not wish done to himself, he should not do to others. This is the golden rule in its negative form, and is one of the high-water marks of Chinese morality. The practice of the Chinese, like that of other people, does not come up to their theoretical standard. What that practice is, and how far it fails to conform to those standards, can only be ascertained by a wide survey of their social life. However, wide such a survey may be, it is always open to the objection that it is not wide enough, for there can be no generalization that takes account of more than an infinitesimal part of even the known facts; and in regard to the social life of the Chinese there is much which is not known at all, and much more which is known imperfectly. As this is one of the most important and likewise one of the last characteristics of the Chinese, to which we wish to draw attention, we must bespeak the reader's considerate attention, once again assuring him, that these things, presented here, have not been suddenly reached, but are the results of slow accumulation of evidence, too strong and too varied to be ignored or resisted. It must ever be borne in mind that the population of China is dense. The disasters of flood and famine are of periodical occurrence in almost all parts of the empire. The Chinese desire for posterity is so overmastering a passion, that circumstances which ought to operate as an effectual check upon population, and which in many other countries would do so, appear to be in China relatively inefficient for that purpose. The very poorest people continue to multiply their children at an early age, and these children bring up large families, just as if there were any provision for their maintenance. The result of these and other causes is, that a large proportion of the population lives in the most literal sense from hand to mouth. This may be said to be the universal condition of day laborers, and it is a condition from which there appears to be no possibility of escape. No foreigner can long deal with the ordinary Chinese whom he everywhere meets, without at once becoming aware of the fact that hardly any one has any ready money. The moment that anything whatever is to be done, the first thing to be done is to find out how to get something to eat, the presumption being that as yet they have had nothing. It is often very hard even for well-to-do people to raise the most moderate sums of money, when it suddenly becomes necessary to do so. There is a most significant expression commonly employed on such occasions, which speaks of a man who is obliged to collect a sum with which to prosecute a law-suit, to arrange for a funeral, and the like, as "putting through a famine," that is, acting like a starving person, in the urgency and persistence of his demand for help. None but those who are well off ever expect to be able to manage affairs of this sort without assistance. Side by side with this chronic need of money, is the correlative fact that the great mass of the people with whom foreigners come into contact, appear to be more or less deeply in debt. This universal necessity for borrowing money is balanced by the universal necessity for lending it. Considering the great and constant risks involved, it is amazing with what facility money is borrowed and lent, by all classes of people. This is due in part to the absence of those forms of investment, such as savings banks, which in the occidental lands now bring the possibility of reasonably safe deposit within the reach of the poorest people. But the promiscuous loaning of money is accompanied by a condition to which reference has been already made, in speaking of the lack of mutual confidence, to wit, the high rate of interest. While three per cent. a month, or even more, is a common rate, in special cases, and for peculiar exigencies the charge is much higher, rising in some instances to the ruinous extortion of one per cent. a day. Hoping poverty is the most prominent fact in the Chinese Empire, and the bearing of this fact upon the relations of the people to one another, must be evident to the most careless observer. People who have no visible means of support, or no means which are at all adequate, and who have no idea where their next meal is to come from, are not in any part of the planet distinguished for their "altruism." The result of the pressure for the means of subsistence, and of the habits which this pressure cultivates and fixes, even after the immediate demand is no longer urgent, is to bring life down to a hard materialistic basis, in which money and food are the prominent facts. Money and food are in fact the two foci of the Chinese ellipse, and it is about these as centres that the whole social life of the people revolves. In speaking of filial piety among the Chinese, we have endeavored to do justice to the strong moral convictions of the people in general as to the duty of proper treatment of the aged. Perhaps there is no other subject to which the national conscience so quickly and so uniformly responds. Yet whoever has the opportunity of intimate acquaintance with the inner aspects of Chinese social life, is well aware that it is not uncommon to find parents who are insufficiently provided with food. The writer is personally acquainted with several such, and the facts are certified not only by the affirmation of the old people themselves, but by the general consensus of the neighbors who are in all cases thoroughly familiar with the particulars. Cases of harsh treatment of parents, even to the extent of beating them, can be heard of by careful and judicious enquiry, but they are certainly not very common, and in such cases the sentiment of the family, the clan, and the village is always against the offenders, although they sometimes escape punishment. In the Hainan district, where the writer lives, there have been two instances of this sort within recent years. In one of them, a man after beating his own mother, took a gun and shot at her, but was compelled by public opinion to run away from home. He subsequently returned, made an apology through an uncle, and he and his mother are still living together and since then he has never once tried to kill her! In another village but a few miles distant from this one, a wealthy man not many years ago actually killed his father with an axe, because he was ashamed of the old man's poverty-stricken appearance! In this case the guilty son was sent to the provincial capital for trial and was executed by the slicing process. On the other hand, in the same town with the man who shot at his mother, lives a dumb man, whose son in caring for his aged mother has long since attracted public notice; and by means of a representation of the local magistrate, the dumb man has been honored by the hanging of a lacquered tablet over his humble door, certifying to his virtues. In the village where these lines are written, lives an old lady seventy-two years of age, who has been for almost a generation a refugee from her home. She is entirely blind, and has been so for many years, and yet she contrives to cook, make her own trifling purchases, spin thread, which she sells at the markets, and laboriously gather fuel a straw at a time, wherever she can find it. It is impossible even for a Chinese to live in a condition of greater "bitterness" than this old woman, whose existence has only been prolonged by the kindness of some of her neighbors. Yet the object of this kindness has two sons living, who at last accounts were perfectly aware of their mother's condition, in which they have never taken the smallest interest, and with whom they have not even communicated for more than twenty years. There is a tradition of an old lady who remarked of the doctrine of total depravity that it is a very good one, "if it is only lived up to." The same observation might be made with justice on the Chinese theory of filial piety.

It was a saying of Geo. D. Prentice, a distinguished Kentucky editor, that man was the principal object in creation, woman being merely "a side issue." The phrase is a literal expression of the position of a wife in a Chinese family. The object had in view in matrimony by the family of the girl, is to get rid of supporting her. The object on the part of the husband's family is to propagate the family. These objects are not in themselves open to criticism, except on the ground of a too complete occupation of the human motives. But in China no one indulges in any illusions on the subject. That which is true of marriages of those in the ordinary walks of life, is pre-eminently true of the poorer classes. It is a common observation in regard to a widow who has re-married, that "now she will not starve." It is a popular proverb that a second husband and a second wife, are husband and wife only as long as there is anything to eat; when the food supply fails, each of them turns on the other, and the husband's family have often been observed where the husband simply abandons the wife and the children, leaving them to pick up a wretched subsistence, or to starve. In many instances daughters-in-law were sent back to their mothers' family to be supported or starved as the event might be. "She is your daughter—take care of her yourself." In other cases where special food was given by distributors of famine relief to women who were nursing small infants, it was sometimes found that this allowance had been taken from the women, and devoured by the men, although these instances were probably exceptional. While it would be obviously unfair to say a people only by the phenomena of such years as those of great famine, there is an important sense in which such occasions are a species of touchstones by which the underlying principles of social life may be ascertained, with more accuracy and certainty, than on ordinary occasions. The sale of wives and of children in China is a practice not confined to years of peculiar distress, but during those years it is carried on to an extent which throws all ordinary transactions of this nature into insignificance. It is generally said that during the early part of the current year, in many districts stricken with a famine only less grievous than those of eleven and twelve years ago, the sale of women and children was conducted as openly as that of mules and donkeys, the only essential difference being that the former were not driven to market. During the great famine of 1873, which extended over nearly all parts of the three most northern provinces, as well as further south, so great a traffic sprang up in women and girls who were exported to the central provinces, that in some places it was difficult to hire a cart, as they had all been engaged in the transportation of the newly purchased females to the regions where they were to be disposed of. These transactions must not be confounded with the trade in girls which exists in Singapore and Hongkong and elsewhere, and which it is so difficult for British officers to detect and break up. In the cases to which reference is now made, young women were taken from a region where they were in a condition of starvation, and where the population was too redundant, to a region which had been depopulated by the ravages of famine, and where for many years wives had been hard to procure. It is one of the most melancholy features of this strange state of affairs, that the enforced sales of members of Chinese families to distant provinces was probably the best thing for all parties, and perhaps the only way in which the lives of those who were sold as well as the lives of those who sold them, could be preserved.—N. C. Daily News.
